

About the 'Barbering Biker'

CHRISTINE KEEBLE AND CALAMITY JANE

With a distinctive "larrikin" Aussie flavor, our funky, sassy, and ever-so-feisty "granny" hits the road on her highly customized, show-stopping motorbike, seeking out the locals at haunts such as pubs, Men's Sheds, and more. She wields her magic on one deserving recipient who has been "dobbed in," all while capturing points of interest, enlisting local businesses, and delving into the town's history and quiky facts or fiction.

The heart and soul of an Aussie town lies within its people and their stories. Chris discovers that the bush telegraph is alive and well as she listens to tales from a community that proudly calls this town the 'Best place in Australia.' A splash of controversy adds to the tall tales, where truth can sometimes be stranger than fiction. "You just can't write this stuff!"

Good times, laughs, authentic cheeky banter, and when available a heartwarming reveal like no other, creating an experience that pays it forward for the whole community, making local legends legendary!

ABOUT CHRIS

Chris centers her life around a few important things: Motherhood, Motorbikes, and Music. With two adult daughters and two granddaughters, being a role model for them to be strong, independent women is very important to her. A high school dropout at 14, she became a hairdresser and barber. Twenty-five years later, with two toddlers under her feet, she decided to pursue a Bachelor of Arts Degree in her mid-30s, ultimately graduating with distinction with a triple major in theatre theory and practice. Throughout her career, Chris held many high-level corporate roles in the entertainment, creative, and marketing sectors. She began writing and producing her own live stage shows under the headline of 'The Rockumentary Series,' some of which went on tour. However, when Covid hit, she lost everything. At 62, Chris picked up the tools again and started a side hustle to make ends meet with some work in aged care. Then, a light bulb moment occurred, bringing together her love of motorbike adventure, her skills in a trade she was still proficient at, and her love of regional country travel, leading to the creation of The Barbering Biker. Chris loves to help others and bring some fun to people's lives. With a charming and cheeky demeanor, she instantly makes people feel like they have known her for years. Now more than ever, she believes in the importance of bringing people and communities back together, advocating for Community Health. Her favorite saying? "Well-behaved women rarely make history." With more energy than people half her age, Chris shows us that age is but a number and it's all about being a bit brave and crazy in a very caring and humble way. "Adventure before Dementia!"
