WHERE ADVENTURE BEFORE DEMENTIA AND TALL TALES COLLIDE WITH MINI MAKEOVERS

One TOWN, one LEGEND, one GOOD DEED at a time - SMALL differences in a BIG Country

Synopsis

With a distinctive “larrikin” Aussie flavour, our funky, sassy and ever-so feisty “granny” hits the road on her highly customised show-stopping motorbike searching out the locals at the local haunts such as pubs, Men’s Sheds etc. She wields her magic on one deserving recipient who has been “dobbed in”.

All the while, capturing points of interest, enlisting local businesses and learning a bit about the town’s Aboriginal and European history, Including a showcase of the towns cuisines and an original Aussie singer songwriter to finish the day. The heart and soul of the Aussie town is found within its people and their stories.

Chris discovers the bush telegraph is alive and well, as the recounting of tales from a community that proudly calls this town the ‘Best place in Australia’

A splash of controversy adds to the tall tales, where truth can sometimes be stranger than fiction.

You just can't write this stuff! !

Good times, laughs and authentic cheeky banter, with a pay it forward heartwarming reveal like no other.

Making Local Legends Legendary !

BARBERING BIKER - SIGNATURE TUNE

Lyrics BY NOEL MACDONALD

Musical arrangement and singing by JEREMY EDWARDS

Hittin' the road again, Two wheels and a dream

Scissors in hand, The coolest granny you've ever seen

Make-over's the mission, She's comin' to town

Razor is sharpened, her close shave is renowned

There's never been anyone like her,

She's The Barbering Biker

Yes....There's never been anyone like her,

They call her The Barbering Biker.

THE BARBERING BIKER

Motorcycle makeover to roll into town

By TUANA BIRDVAN

Pinarac looking for special volunteer skills

fresh cut, Ms Keeble likes to interview her clients to better understand the culture of town.

"We've been talking about social distancing for over two years now, and I really want to get people to stop social distancing and bring them together and get the community involved," she shared, adding that collectively selecting a recipient for a haircut helps bring out community spirit.

"We talk about mental health, but no one talks about community health, and I think there is an aspect to what I do which brings the community together," she continued, saying that before she commences her travels, she researches the town's Indigenous and European settlement history.

Meeting various types of people along her journey, she said that country people have a life-minded generosity about them and their time, with a sense of encouragement, she added.

"The mix is different everywhere you go, with different cultures and history, but regional people all share kindness."

Through her riding she advocates the importance of Australian history and the acknowledgement of where Australians came from.

She described her personal style as "regulation mares steam punk" - explaining that she finds fulfillment in her caps, moccasins, and whistles. Because she has a "western style" she holds a strong social media presence with the American biking community.

"My dream is to ride across America for three months and meet beautiful people along the way," she smiled, adding that she has been riding her Indian for six years, but her passion for motorcycle riding stemmed from when she was in her 20s with her former husband.

"I had a motorcycle, and I really didn't feel safe as a pillion as I had no control," she expressed that she always reconnected with bikes, so she got her license and purchased a bike.

"Rather than be on the back of the bike, I'd rather ride beside someone, and in a way I think we should do that as life as women."

"Coincidentally it was International Female Ride Day on Saturday, however Ms Keeble said that this day is shared with men and women and recognises there can also be great female riders."

"I'm not a big believer in women's days and women only events as I think that drawn to their presence. Showcased on her customised Indian is her love of horses and cows, with images decorated the bike in horse saddles, saddle bags, horse and cow heads, straps, feathers, pistol holders and other unique pieces.

Known as the barbering biker, Ms Keeble travels to and from towns cutting the hair of deserving recipients selected by their community.

With a history in hair-dressing, she's a master of perms and traditional hairstyles that are not commonly practiced today, she shared that she was asked by an aged care facility to cut the resident hair.

David claimed her business of writing and producing, and Ms Keeble thought to herself, "I'm actually still good at hairdressing, I've still got the skills," so she decided to combine her passion of bikes with her rediscovered occupation.

Since then, she's been organising tours across Australia, specifically to regional towns to cut hair and share her bike riding experiences.

"The community usually does someone in, and we go to a local pub, or a local venue and I cut their hair."

Chris centers her life around a few important things, Motherhood, Motorbikes & Music. With two adult daughters and two granddaughters, being a role model for them to be strong, independent women is very important.

A high school dropout at 14 she became a hairdresser and barber. 25 years later with two toddlers under her feet she decided to do a Bachelor of Arts Degree in her mid-30's. A triple major in theatre theory and practice she graduated with distinction.

Holding many high-level corporate roles in the entertainment, creative and marketing sectors, Chris started writing and producing her own live stage shows under the headline of 'The Rockumentary Series'. She had a number of her shows on tour and when Covid hit and lost everything.

At 62 Chris picked up the tools again and started a side hustle to make ends meet with a bit of work in aged care. A light bulb moment happened, bringing together her love of motorbike adventure, her skills in a trade she was still bloody good at and the love of regional country travel created the Idea of The Barbering Biker. Chris loves to help others and bring some fun to people's lives. With a charming and cheeky way about her Chris instantly makes folk feel like they have known her for years.

Now more than ever we need to bring people and communities back together. Let's talk about Community Health!

Her favorite saying?

Well behaved women rarely make history.

With more energy than people half her age, Chris shows us that age is but a number and it's all about a bit of brave and crazy in a very caring and humble way.

Adventure before Dementia !

Giddy

Thanks so much for your interest in what I do and for considering The Barbering Biker.

I have attached a pitch deck which sums up a lot about me and what we do with loads of pictures to see the idea/look of how it is presented . This is currently with SBS as a possible series.

Here are some basic Details:

The appearance fee is $550 (no GST) Plus any major expenses worked out at negotiation time. EG accommodation for the night and travel distance is worked out based on how far and what other gigs I can get on way.

I appear for approx. 3 plus hours at any time that suits you.

I can do 1 to 2 makeovers.. or possibly 3 if needed.. I will work with you and work hard to make this very entertaining etc . The community usually find the person or persons for the makeover. A Local Legend 😊

The people who have the makeover need to have a decent cut and change.. no little trims as such.. we want to have a good before and after. You can see examples in the pitch deck . if it makes the TV or media.. they also want a change to be noticeable as it makes good press.

I can do the makeover in front of everyone.. OR I can take them away and bring them out for the reveal 45 minutes later, usually while audience orders a meal etc if in a hospitality venue .

During the makeover, I chat and generally talk to the crowd and engage everyone etc. I can do some fun readings with my Native Indian and Indigenous Tarot cards.

I film the process and make a little video of the day. Including any chats to locals and Businesses and points of interest in the town.

I can do ladies but prefer to stick with Men... as the ladies cuts are a bit more fussy and I don't carry dryers, straighteners etc. I don't use electricity.. and need no special areas.. I can do this anywhere.

I approach local and national media also.

I'm happy to help and advise your team to secure sponsorship ideas. To cover the cost. Often a business will sponsor the event and have naming rights to it.. perfect for launches , charity events etc.

I'm also happy for kids and adults to sit on the bike for pictures etc.

You can engage any charity or cause you like and I will support and make mention of them in everything I do.

I heavily promote my appearance to my followers etc and encourage them to ride to the venue or event.

I'm all about bringing the community together for a bit of fun and everyone loves a reveal/makeover! Let's talk about Community Health! Plus, the Motorbike is a showstopper and a real attraction.!

Thanks again for your consideration and I look forward to hearing back or happy to chat further to yourself or committee.

PS happy to chat further.. I don't set up all day cutting hair as such and I dont charge the people, as I don't want to conflict with any local barbers / hairdressers, in fact id like to meet them !!! Think of me as part of the entertainment budget
